

NurseryTip of the Week

Treat Fire Ants

If fire ants are beginning to plague you - organic Diatomaceous Earth can be applied to your whole lawn and is a great contact killer (it will also take care of many other pests, including fleas). Dried molasses can be applied as well to help repel fire ants while feeding your soil at the same time. Other organic fire ant control solutions include:

- Spinosad products, like Come & Get It which is bait that will kill the queen and the mound
- Orange oil is an effective contact killer and mound drench
- Liquid molasses, like the dried version, will help repel fire ants
- Anti-Fuego is a mound drench that includes orange oil, compost tea and molasses

Treat Mosquitoes

If mosquitoes are becoming a problem - treat your lawn and garden with Organic CedarCide products that do a great job of warding off mosquitoes as well as other pests. It comes in a yard spray as well as convenient granules that also work great in stalls and barns and is safe around children, pets and vegetable gardens.

5/12/08